Pokémon Card Club	1. For kids to showcase their cards, and trade, share stories about when and where they got their cards, discuss values, and discuss the various card sets (each set has its name and specific cards included). 2. If kids want to trade cards but don't know anyone to trade with, they can trade cards with the people in this club. 3. Kids can show club members their favorite or most valuable cards. 4. If kids don't know about Pokemon cards, they can still learn about the art style and value of each card and start to gather their own collection.	Mondays before school Room 416	Connor Guusti	Ryan Costello
Rhythmic Writing	We will write stories and give each other feedback on them.	Fridays before school Room 311	Violet Taylor	Andy Graham
Spike ball	To have fun and to teach people how to play not well known sport.	Thursdays after school Cafeteria	Wesley Frevert 970.980.5379	Bre Jordan
Speech & Debate Club	To teach and compete in Speech and Debate.	Tuesdays before school Mrs. Darrow's Room	Hayden Magekly ink5990@gmail.com	Nicole Darrow
Uno Club	We want to make a club where kids can come and be themselves and after school they can have fun with other kids in Kinard. Also it can be a great opportunity for kids to get to be themselves over a good game of Uno. Overall we want other kids to get to be themselves and have fun.	Wednesdays after school Room 313	Jovan Najar 970.222.4933	Michaela Eitsert

Visual &amp; Literary Arts Club	This club will be based on the annual community art challenge Inktober. Inktober is a community activity hosted in the digital &amp; traditional art community where a one-word prompt such as "dream" or "ominous" is given every day in October. Artists then traditionally create an inked art piece of the prompt. However, the club will embrace a larger range of creative expression: digital/traditional art, calligraphy, and writing short poems or excerpts to represent the prompt, allowing all artists and even writers to participate. The event is designed to interest you in art, improve skills, showcase your talent, interact with the community, and of course, to have fun. You can visit its official site here: https://inktober.com/. We will meet weekly to share our creations and draw/write together. After October, we'll transition into Inktober 52, with a weekly prompt. Additionally, there will be Google slideshow presentations around tips for drawing, writing, and integrating into communities (specifically the digital art community). The club is aimed to produce a supportive community where artists and writers can grow and interact with each other.	Thursdays after school Medial Center	Jacqueline Liu ink.inquiry.mail@gmail.com 970.632.1153	Shara Vanhuss-Willis
